You start the game in an old crypt located somewhere in Poland, as you're told by some guy about a psychopathic sorcerer who called himself the Tchernobog who wants to destroy the world. No one knows where he is, and you are the last survivor of the people who tried to stop him. To stop him you must battle through 42 levels, each of which is much more than just a basic corridor. Each level is filled with hellish monsters which often require the use of weapons other than the shovel you start the game with. In some levels there are no other weapons you can use except your pitchfork. But even if you are as prepared as a knight with his sword, yet you can not defeat the Tchernobog all by yourself. He has not only spawned many monsters in hell, but it is also controlling the world of undead creatures and powerful demons from inside the ground. You will have to avoid all these horrors and try to slay the Tchernobog. The more you fight, the more you will be able to buy different weapons and mod gadgets for the pitchfork. You fight not only zombies and ghosts, but also Crows, Dobermen, Pyramid Head, Gargoyles, Spiders c9d1549cdd

- Discover a new island to start all over! - The unique gameplay system, which changes based on the map: the action system, where players choose their path of attack. - The daily updates, which will keep this expansion fresh! - Full of the latest discoveries, objects, and events that will lead you to the solution to the mystery. - Survive the night, and explore the island by day in an entirely new way! The expansion is available for both PC and MAC. Not a lot of info about this, but I highly doubt that the sales from this will make a major difference to Paraíso's official donation, so I'm guessing this is some sort of exploit. There is a similar phenomenon happening right now with the Nintendo Switch. We know Nintendo haven't been giving much information and updates to it, but sales of the Switch games have been skyrocketing! Basically I'm concerned about a new cause coming up and they want to just transfer donations to them, much like people were donating to Zelda! I figured this happened to me because this was the first game I played Paraíso on and then Nintendo announced the new rules for how to donate and in order to get the original donation you had to do this first before the new gameplay, which was a pretty bad explanation from Nintendo. Hello there, I appreciate that you are trying to help support Paraíso and it is very nice of you to be donating to us but I am afraid it is not the right thing to do. I've let Nintendo know and they will be taking care of this soon and we will keep you up to date here. Hello there, I appreciate that you are trying to help support Paraíso and it is very nice of you to be donating to us but I am afraid it is not the right thing to do. I've let Nintendo know and they will be taking care of this soon and we will keep you up to date here. I figure this is the whole reason for now not only is the clock ticking away to release but Nintendo will be doing their homework here in a couple of months to find out what happened. Why would they be doing their homework? They are running an online game with donation scheme. The donation scheme works only
